AutoStone Floor Systems - a Strategic Contract Brands, Inc., company

AutoStone is a wholly owned subsidiary of Strategic Contract Brands, Inc., (SCB) which was founded in 1997. SCB creates, owns and operates companies that supply construction related products to the commercial market sector. SCB companies are identified with their specific market place with the goal of becoming the established leading brand supplying products for their specific market segment. SCB companies understand their market place better than other suppliers by working closely with the end-user, become immersed in their unique industry culture to understand their buying decisions and to further map-out better distribution and supply chain strategies in support of brand program roll-outs. with on-time deliveries and most competitive product pricing guarantees which solidify their position in their support of these program initiatives.

Automotive Retail and Service Facility Materials Provider

AutoStone specializes in the design, production and distribution of porcelain tile technology for use in the automotive retail and service facility. AutoStone works with automotive brands and their brand architects to develop tile products which align with image program guidelines for dealership facilities. Products are developed that utilize proprietary technologies that deliver better product performance in the automotive retail and service environment. We provide the truest facsimile of the materials chosen by program designers. Our core technologies revolve around:

- * High quality performance and high fidelity visual aesthetic.
- * Products that provide a “like-new” appearance for the life of the facility.
- * Risk reduction with tile products that help facilities better manage STF (slip, trip and fall) risk.
- * Reduced risk in the supply chain.
- * Green technologies that reduce strain on environment and reduced carbon footprint.
- * Lessened dependence upon limited skilled labor resources for installation.
- * Reduced materials, distribution and supply cost to dealers, their builders and tile contractors.

AutoStone is more than a materials vendor, we are a vital part of your branding directive and supporter of your image goals.

Better Website Content and Product Explanation

AutoStone web-digital content speaks directly to the automotive dealers on how our product is to be used and supported in their specific environment, as does all our brand pages. No other tile provider communicates in specifics to the automotive environment. AutoStone does and supports your franchise dealers with real world, real-life content and support. AutoStone has invested significantly in our web-digital platform, so all information and content are readily accessible to dealers, architects, builders, tile subcontractors and all supporting parties who are involved with or touch our materials. Each automotive brand page reflects this commitment and is designed to convey all messaging readily regardless if desktop or a mobile device. We have created brand-specific animations, gifs, video's, and PDF's to help explain "what is important" and "why it is important". We use these type tools to explain complex ideas in simple digestible bites, so smart decisions are made to better support each brands dealership program.

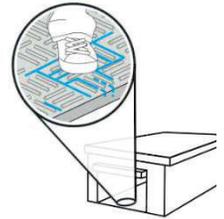

High Traction Surface Rating

Brand programs encourage making your service facility viewable to the customer. Industry research indicates that professional-looking, clean and tidy service departments improve CSI ratings while enhancing brand perception. AutoStone provides you the best floor system which can deliver a beautiful, durable and clean appearing facility. Your shop is an extension of your showroom, because each positive customer experience leads to increased service revenue and future vehicle sales. AutoStone delivers permanence, performance and appearance.

Manage STF Environmental Risk

AutoStone proposes our driveseries as one of our three workshop floor systems for service drive and workshop facilities. This service and workshop floor system has been successfully installed in a number of various dealership locations where dealers love the STF benefits, which reduce their exposure to customer and employee injury in the service drive and/or workshop.

Driveseries

is a high-traction elevated surface tile to help manage slip, trip, and fall risks in service drive and workshop environments.

Products that aren't understood don't get used, so we have invested in better ways to inform and educate, as represented in this driveseries explanation video, click the image above to watch a video.

Dealers Love Us, Brands Approve Us.

Automotive is all we do and we support it better than anyone. We track your projects, we work with your dealership partners, their architects, builders and subcontractors. Because we focus on the automotive sector, we know your brand, your dealers and their needs. The automotive dealership has become an architectural and construction sector specialty. Why shouldn't your materials providers specialize as well? Because we specialize in the automotive sector and only support image program roll-outs, we are able to reduce product cost and deliver better results. We have over 20 years of industry specific success that validate our commitment to delivering the best products, service and pricing. Automotive dealers are highly effective and proficient business owners and they prefer AutoStone Floor Systems to other tile brands and providers. As we have heard for years, dealers love us, brands approve us!
